

All Chickens Die Someday

Time is very challenging to understand, but it is also very powerful and the children are self-motivated to learn about time.

“I hope these chickens never die” is the reply to a discussion about how farmers get the feathers off chickens for eating.

“Well, all chickens die some day, but I don’t think these chickens will die today. I don’t think they will die until you have been going to elementary school for a while.”

“I will miss the chickens...”

